Requirements

- Individual planning and design
- Waterproof material
- Short construction time

The wellness area of the private spa in Bergisch Gladbach was built with the use of custom-made wedi modules. The walls of the spa area were clad with wedi elements and niches were integrated directly into the surface in order to create convenient storage for towels, shampoo etc. In addition to the heating technology integrated into the wedi bench, required recesses for power and lighting technology were also incorporated during the manufacturing process.
